January 12, 1974 Carnegie South Cricket Club Magazine No. 14

TWO TEAMS FOR FINALS

For the first time ever, Carnegie South has two teams in the four. The firsts are on top and the seconds have entered the four after receiving a walk-over in round six.

With only four rounds remaining before the finals, it is important that both teams make every post a winner. The firsts can't afford to lose that top spot, while the seconds must keep winning to ensure a finals berth. The firsts had to pull a few stops out to defeat Thompson & White by 5 wickets in the last round. Alan Johanson and Johnny O'Mara gave us another fine start, but the quick wickets of Ron King, Daryl Pitman and Pete Jewell kept us from taking things too easily. Noel Dettman made a welcome return to form with a hard-hitting 32 n.o. to clinch victory for us. After collapsing to 7/19 against C.B.A. in the fifth round, the seconds staged a memorable fightback to take outright points. 'Tammy' Dunbar (40) and Garry Semmens (23) were the heroes. Dave Oakley continued on his merry way, capturing 11 wickets for the game to bring his tally to 27 in four games — and he has bowled in only three of those games.

WIN A BARBECUE!

As from today, you have the chance to win a valuable, portable gas barbecue for only twenty cents. Tickets can be obtained from any committee member, and we would like all players and supporters to take a book of tickets themselves to sell to their friends. It's a fantastic prize, well worth winning. The winning ticket will be drawn at our dinner dance on Friday, 5th April. So sell some tickets and help your club.

* * * *

And don't forget that date - 5th April, the night of our dinner dance and presentation of trophies for this season. See "What's Doing" in this issue for details.

It takes more than just eleven good cricketers to win a premiership. A good club needs support. And that's what we have plenty of this season. We appreciate very much the support of our advertisers and the people who donate trophies, funds etc. to our club. Many thanks to Richards' Carnegie Authorised Newsagency for their recent donation. Don't forget to support our advertisers fellas. They're helping us to a flag.

WE LOSE STEVE

One of our experienced players and brilliant fieldsman, Steve Steet will be unable to play for most of the remainder of this season, when he will concentrate on professional running. Steve has so far had seven races for one win and six thirds. However, he says he will gladly help us out if we are ever short and he has no running commitments. The club is sorry to lose such a valuable player as Steve but wishes him all the success in the the world of professional footranning.

HOWZISS

Shame on you David Holt!
Fancy being clean bowled by a pregnant woman running uphill. That's what happened in the Girls v Guys match during our Christmas picnic at Emerald Lake, when Marg McSwain bowled up a curly, inswinging yorker to Dave (actually it was straight up-and-down and bounced eleven times). The girls reckon they won easily, but 'Demon Dave' insists the fellas scraped home by one run —
LUCKY FOR HIM ! !

Jimmy Walsh's young daughter asked him the other day; "Daddy, what coloured duck are you going to bring home today?" Jimmy's reply wasn't printable.

-----
The club has just purchased another $50 worth of equipment during the week. We're getting there fellas!

-----
Overheard on the idiot-box during the second Test in Sydney. "And that's THE shot that he plays as well as any other shot." Ho hum.

-----
Just what was Peter Jewell doing in the ladies loo at Emerald Lake. Helen Pitman sprung 'Gunky' coming out of the exit marked ladies - and he was smiling! He said he made a mistake... but . . . .

PAY IS LOUSY

By Daryl Pitman

I see that the V.C.A. recently granted a pay rise to Victorian Sheffield Shield players, who will now receive $12.50 per day, a rise of $2.50. I don't understand why the pay for shield cricketers should be so low. These players entertain many thousands of people and should be rewarded appropriately. They lose money by taking time off work to play cricket. In comparison to a league footballer, a shield cricketer, representing his state, is badly underpaid. With the profit the VCA makes from each first-class game at the M.C.G., a little extra for the men in the middle wouldn't go astray. Incidentally, a test player receives $200 per test — a more fitting payment for a first-class entertainer.

Round 5

Carnegie South v Tooronga

Revenge was sweet against the side that beat us in the semi-final last season. Alan Johanson returned in a blaze of glory with a magnificent 105 not out. We lost only two wickets in more than doubling the visitors' score, but a century by Colin Simms prevented us capturing all second innings wickets for those elusive outright points. Dave Holt starred with 5/29.

Round 6

Carnegie South v Thompson & White

Once again we turned the tables, this time on Thompson & White, who defeated us in the first round. Noel Dettman returned to form with both his batting and bowling, while Alan Johanson and Johnny O'Mara continued their good form. The first day was washed out, forcing a one-day game the second Saturday.

Round 5

C.B.A. Bank v Carnegie South

Although we were bundled out for only 59 in our first innings, we replied by dismissing C.B.A. for a paltry 55, thanks to the fantastic bowling by 'Dangerous' Dave Oakley. Dave snared 7/28 in that first innings and 4/20 in the second. In real trouble at 7/19 in the second innings, we recovered to reach a total of 95. This was made possible by a fighting 46-run partnership by Tim Dunbar and Garry Semmens. We took our first outright points for the season when we bowled the opposition out for 75.

WHAT'S DOING

AT CARNEGIE SOUTH

By Maggie

With the advent of another new year, I can only hope that our social scene continues to be as successful as it was in 1973. Our Christmas picnic at Emerald Lake was a huge success and all had a good day. The raffle for the Christmas hamper was won by the ticket "Janet of Safeway". The second prize, a Christmas cake, was won by our own 'Tammy' Dunbar. You've read about the raffle for the portable gas barbecue on page one of this issue. Get your tickets today! Another function, probably in the form of a barbecue, is coming up soon, so keep your eye on the noticeboard for further details. Either tomorrow (13th) or the following Sunday (20th), we will be holding a bottle drive, so save those bottles and help club funds. Our Presentation Dinner Dance will be held on Friday, 5th April at 'The Gables', Finch St., East Malvern and will cost $13.00 per double, B.Y.O. A good night is assured, so get in early. Tickets will be available as from next Saturday (19th).

ONE DAY MATCH

Part 2 of a serial written for 'At The Crease' by Robin Lovell

The VC10 hushpowered its way across the world. Inside, Alan Knott leaned over and tapped Geoff Boycott on the shoulder, interrupting the opener's viewing of the first release movie.

"Oi, Geoff. What's a Carnegie South?"

"I give oop lad. What's a Carnegie South?" muttered Boycott, eyes transfixed on the mammary magnificence of Racquel Welch.

"Carnegie" said Knott and shrugged. "That's why I asked.

We're playing one on January 27th."

"What do you play on it?"

"I dunno" admitted Knott. The erect nipple zooming into close-up drove the matter from his mind.

In front of the mirror, Ron King, clad only in jockettes, was practising his stance and playing drives through the bedroom door to the oil heater, fielding at long on.

"Aw for Pete's sake" moaned Maggie, "Why don't you come to bed?" Ron curled his lip and swept a loose ball to the boundary.

"Bloody women" he philosophied. "You just don't understand do you? This is me big chance. After this game, I could be up there with the Bradmans, the Lawrys, the Stackpoles, the Edriches, the Worells, even the Sobereses. This is me chance for glory." He defended grimly against a ball that turned late. Tricky stuff.

"Pig's Ding" scoffed Maggie and turned off the light.

"Aw jeez, what you want to do that for?" complained Ron. He made his way to the bed in the dark and stubbed his toe against leg slip; normally the dressing table.

Rob Parker sat on the toilet reading John Snow's book.

"I'd like to king hit this smarty pants, arrogant Pom for six" he thought and groaned happily.

"Go on darls, drink your Dietale. It's getting late." smiled Marg McSwain, placing her empty cocoa cup on the bedside table. Bomber turned over and looked ruefully at his wife. "I dunno love. I seem to have lost the desire since I read that bloody fixture."

"You can say that again" said Marg.

"No, you know what I mean. How can a man enjoy a quiet frosty when he's got those Pommy bowlers on his mind? It's worse than a streetfull of dangerous Dobermans. It'd drive a man away from drink."

Marg nodded her agreement. "I reckon it'll be the most lopsided score-sheet I've ever done."

Bomber moaned and buried his head in the pillow. In the dark, Marg sighed as she listened to him quietly cry himself to sleep.

In his bohemian South Yarra flat, Tammy sat up late, exercising his fingers.

"This could be my biggest moment since I bowled Dick Motz" he dreamed. Like all cricketing Kiwis, his burning ambition was to be noticed, however fleetingly, in Australia. (cont. over page)

Noel Dettman was impressing a bird.

"I tell you Marcia, sorry, Elenore . . . "

"Annabelle." interrupted the bird.

"Yeah, anyway, you're going to be proud of me after I've starred against England.

"Gawd," said Annabelle, pausing, then doing up her bra again,

"some blokes'll say anything to con someone into the cot"

"Where are you going?" yelled Noel, sitting up.

"I'm not staying here with you bulling on about playing cricket against England. Bloody England! You must think I came down with the last shower! "

Noel started to panic.

"But jeez . . . hell we haven't even . . . you know . . . jeez .

I was looking forward . . ."

Annabelle buttoned up her cardy and put on her pearls. "No. And we're not going to now. I can't stand big noters. Besides, I hate cricket.

She left.

Noel fell back on his bachelor bed, alone and very tense.

So approacheth the twenty seventh of January.

and the One Day Match.

COMPULSORY CRICKET

None of us have any pretensions to crick-eting fame. How can we when we play teams like Bill's Bookshop, Thompson and White, C.B.A. and Myers? We're obviously never going to be a Keith Stackpole, a Graham Pollock, a John Snow or a Glenn Turner (thought I'd chuck that one in to establish my identity as a Kiwi). But at least we do all play voluntarily — whatever the seriousness of our approach.

At my school — for the dubious privilege of actually playing (which was compulsory for your first year) you had to pass a test. For most, this was a mere formality. For the unlucky few it proved a real ordeal. Every 'first year' had to swim 100 yards to show that he was ready to face up to the riptide of life. For the unlucky few, this meant several weeks of vigorous splashing and floundering until the elusive target was finally reached.

Compulsory cricket meant that the enthusiasm usually evident in the way Carnegie South play the game was often conspicuously absent. Scorebooks were falsified giving one team outright victory so that both could get home an hour early. Batsmen would deliberately get out by hitting their wickets. I even remember being given out bowled when the wicketkeeper surreptitiously kicked the bails off.

LOOK MUM, NO BAILS

It's not every day a cricket match is played without any bails on the stumps, but this was the situation in our game against Thompson and White. The wind was so strong that the bails were continually being dislodged. After Alan Johanson bowled one of the longest overs in history in which there were countless interruptions, it was decided by both captains to play without bails.

LA GRANDIOSE

By Ron Johanson

No anchovies please

The restaurant my partner and I visited on this occasion was the Sophia Pizza House in Burke Road, Camberwell. This restaurant is so named because of the owner's enchantment with that wonderful woman and actress (not necessarily in that order) Sophia Loren. If the name doesn't ring a bell, remember the jugs? If you have ever eaten a pizza at Toto's in Carlton, then you know the difference between a good pizza and a bad one. Sophia makes good pizza - extra good, reasonably priced and choc-a-block with tasty morsels like: cheese, salami, bacon, peppers, mushies etc. If you can't handle pizza but dig other Italian food, then check out the Lasagne (La-sun-ya). A mixture of pasta, meat, a few herbs and spices, not to be confused with the Colonel, and a rich sauce. If you want to be a little daring, then try the Calamari - squid to the layman. Don't let the name put you off. Squid has a unique and delicate flavour. Don't worry, it's not black and slimy with goo-goo eyes, and it doesn't knock your ulcer around either. Go to it Bomber! Sophia also has charcoal grilled steak - not as good as their pizza and other Italian dishes but still cooked how you like it. No food is quite right without a bottle of something, whether it be wine, coke, beer or metho. I chose a bottle of Lindemans Ben Ean moselle, not dry but sweet and palatable enough to make you want to drink more .. and more ...and more..and (hic) more. (Officer, I am not going to help you blow up your party balloons.)

SOPHIA PIZZA HOUSE, 857 Burke Road, Camberwell. $5.00 for two. Lindemans Ben Ean moselle (make sure its chilled) $1.25 per bottle.

Please drive carefully — good wine, food and conversation may take its toll.

Two Tons. The firsts on top and the seconds fourth. What a start to 1974!

Good to see our captain knock 100 plus and then 'Joe the blackie' do the same.

Great ride to Daryl's place the other night. We were given a lift by 'Copper' Holt and were stopped by the 'Wallopers'. The ride home with Maggie King wasn't any better because Maggie was doing the twist while driving. (Only joking Officer).

Good to see Ken Galpin back from Queensland. Keen to get back to cricket too.

'Kingie' : . 46 runs. So what, I got 55 the first game. You still have to beat that old fella!!

Not much to tell you, except that everything looks good for this year.

There are many people who are continually helping our club in some way but are never recognized or even known by most of the players and supporters. Mrs Eileen McMahon, who is Cappy's "right-hand" is one of those people. Mrs. McMahon has been helping Cappy with his fund-raising for about six years and does a tremendous job for us, along with all of Cappy's crew who support our club. All at Carnegie South are very grateful to them and chorus a big 'Thank You'.

FOR THE RECORD

Here are some very exciting, interesting cricket facts accidentally left out of this year's Miller's Guide :

Most overs bowled in a season -
172 (G. McSwain 19-72-73)

Most Innings - 21
(K. Cameron '64-65)

Most Maidens - 33
(N. Dettman '72-73)

Most 'not-outs' - 7
(J. Cameron '65-66)

Most Wins - 11
( '67-68)

Most Losses - 9
( '66-67, 65-66, 62-63)

FIFTY UP FOR GARRY

As you know, we are now raffling a portable gas barbecue to raise club funds. This was made possible by Mr. Mills, the father of Dave Mills. The club committee would like to thank Mr. Mills very much for his kind donation.

Related?

The name 'Bomber' McSwain has put fear into the heart of many a batsman and bowler over the past twenty years. However, the name of McSwain was around long before 'Bomber' was even thought of. The Moorabbin Standard News recently published an article about a cricket match, played over four Saturdays in 1898, in which Cheltenham managed to hold on to defeat Middle Brighton by an innings and 606 runs. In the accompanying photograph of the victorious Cheltenham eleven, was a be-whiskered official listed as Mr. E. McSwain. Any relation Bomber?

Garry Semmens today plays his 50th game for Carnegie South. Garry began with the club in 1965, which makes him the equal longest-playing member of the club along with 'Bomber' McSwain. Garry has proved a great clubman over the years and he is having a good season this summer. He was a member of the runners-up teams of 1967-68 and 1968-69. This could be the year he's a member of a premiership side. Well done Garry!

Stalwart Johnny O'Mara needs only 20 runs to reach his 2,000-run milestone. Johnny, a great player for our club since 1966 has amassed an aggregate of 1,980 runs in 75 games, at an average of 18.85.

And Ron King is very close to the 1,000 run mark. In his 40 games since joining us in 1968, Ron has piled up 947 runs at an average of 16.78.

'The Penguin' Noel Dettman requires 4 wickets for his 'century'. Noel joined the club in 1969 and since then has taken 96 wickets at an average of 14.16. Noel has also just passed the 1,300 run mark with the bat. After 44 games, he has scored 1312 runs at an average of 22.23.

Patience must be a virtue. Daryl Pitman scored a century in his 101st innings for the club. Brian Lyons pads up for his 50th innings today. Hope it's an omen Brian.

What price Alan Johanson for the Association batting averages? After two innings, Alan has the impressive average of 140.00. However, he will need to bat another five times to be eligible for the award. With only four games to go, Alan could be in danger of failing to qualify, even if he continues his good form. Place your bets now!

The Firsts have a proud record still intact after the sixth round. So far this season, we have not lost ten wickets in an innings. The most we have lost was nine in the first round when we were weakened by the absence of about eight senior players. Let's hope our record is still intact after the Grand Final!

Quacker's Quote

By Brian Lyons

The worst of those problems is overconfidence. No matter how well we have gone during the season, we still have to win the one that really counts. We could easily have lost a few games during the season if not for a few individual efforts. The top four teams are all strong enough to topple us if we do not concentrate fully on our objective. We must bear in mind that every other team in our grade finished above us last season. And we all know what an up-and-down game cricket can be. New Zealand have proved it recently in the second Test. Perhaps Australia took the Kiwis too easily and paid the penalty. As far as we are concerned, this year's flag is more important than any Test match. Practice is a must for every player from now on.

In our last issue, we said that Doug Hale and Leigh Bennett were to be married on January 27. Well, the 27th is a Sunday. The wedding is on Saturday the 26th. Sorry about that Doug and Leigh. Have a great day on the 26th anyway.

If anyone would like to place an advertisement in 'At The Crease', contact Daryl Pitman on 546 2497 any night after 6.30.

It's very nice to be sitting up there on top of the premiership ladder, but unfortunately, success also breeds new problems.

PUNCHLINE

By Daryl Pitman

The LBW farce

When are the batsmen in this association going to get a fair go? Indications are that it will be some time before we are relieved of the lbw scourge. The association has made an effort to educate all clubs and their players on the lbw law, but unfortunately chose a Thursday night to do it - the night when most clubs practise and select their teams. LBW was a contentious subject even when we had regular umpires, but with the added pressure now on the players, it has become nothing short of a joke. Batsmen are repeatedly being given out lbw when three or four paces down the wicket or when well outside the leg stump. The official MCC law is too long and involved to quote here. However, all players and part-time umpires would benefit greatly by reading the ruling thoroughly. If players noted carefully the umpires' lbw decisions in first-class games, they would realize how difficult it should be to obtain an lbw verdict. Most top cricketers would not even have appealed for the majority of lbw dismissals seen this season in our games. If there is one tiny element of doubt about the ball hitting the stumps, the batsman should receive the benefit. I have felt for many batsmen I have seen given out lbw by their teammates this season, and while there is no immediate solution, I hope all Carnegie South players at least can study the rule and lessen the chances of any of our players losing their wickets unnecessarily to the lbw scourge.
